

We found these bugs on our tomatoes at the Corrales Family Practice garden. The first one that is embedded in the tomato looks like some sort of beetle. The other bugs look like beetles too, but not the same kind. Any help on what these are and how to deal with them so that they don't destroy our donation garden crop would be appreciated.

Looks like it has been feasting on our tomato!

The other bugs we found